

Allan D. Charles' Bibliography

MONOGRAPHS:

The History of the Georgia Academy of Science (Athens: Georgia Academy of Science, 1968); 2nd ed., 1999;

The Narrative History of the First Baptist Church of Union, South Carolina (Union, SC, First Baptist Church, 1972), (This work won first prize in the South Carolina Baptist Church Sesquicentennial Church History Contest, 1971.); 2nd ed., rev., 1993;

A Historical Map of Union County, South Carolina (Greenville: "A" Press, 1976);

History of Dentistry in South Carolina, Ph.D. dissertation, (Greenville: "A" Press, 1983);

The Narrative History of Union County, South Carolina (Spartanburg, SC: The Reprint Company, Publishers, 1987); 2nd ed., rev., 1991; 3rd ed., rev., 1997; 4th ed., rev., (Union County Historical Society, 2014);

The History of Grace United Methodist Church, Union, South Carolina, 1873-2015, (Union, SC, Grace United Methodist Church, 2015), 3rd ed., a revision and update of two previous editions by Fannie Lee Sparks.

ARTICLES:

"Roads in South Carolina before the Railroad Era," published serially in Carolina Highways, June, 1977-February, 1978;

"The Influenza Pandemic of 1918-1919: Columbia and South Carolina's Response," The Journal of the South Carolina Medical Association, August, 1977; (This article caused the author to be the featured speaker at the S. C. Dept. of Health and Environmental Control's Influenza Preparedness meeting held Nov., 1999.), reprinted by S. C. Dept. of Health and Environmental Control, 2007.

"The Leadership of American Dentistry, 1790-1840," South Carolina Dental Journal, fall, 1977;

"Tuberculosis in South Carolina," The Journal of the South Carolina Medical Association, June, 1979;

"The Burning of Columbia," Southern Partisan, spring-summer, 1981;

"The Story of Dental Amalgam," Bulletin of the History of Dentistry, April, 1982;

“The Issue of Our Time,” Southern Partisan, summer, 1982;

“Howard K. Beale,” in Twentieth Century Historians volume of Dictionary of Literary Biography (1983);

“John W. Draper,” in American Historians, 1670-1865 volume of Dictionary of Literary Biography, (1984);

“The Evolution of Aiken, South Carolina, as a TB Resort,” in Aiken Standard, Sesquicentennial Issue, 30 April 1985, and an abridged version in Historic Sketches on Aiken: A Collection of 150 Years of Our Southern City, Aiken Historical Association, 1985;

“Industrialization and Labor in the Southern Up-Country: A Case Study,” Continuity: A Journal of History, fall, 1984;

“A New Look at Medicine in England in the Sixteenth Century,” Proceedings of the South Carolina Historical Association, 1985;

“Black-White Relations in an Antebellum Church in the Carolina Up-Country,” South Carolina Historical Magazine, October, 1988;

Numerous short historical articles in Historical Newsletter of Union County Historical Society;

“Johannes Diderik van der Waals,” The Nobel Prize Winners: Physics, Pasadena, California: Salem Press; (3500 words) 1989);

“Christiaan Huygens,” Great Lives from History: Renaissance to 1900, Pasadena, California: Salem Press; (2500 words) (1989);

“Antony van Leeuwenhoek,” Great Lives from History: Renaissance to 1900, Pasadena, California: Salem Press; (2500 words) (1989);

“Robert Koch,” Great Lives from History: Renaissance to 1900, Pasadena, California: Salem Press; (2500 words) (1989);

“Louis Pasteur,” Great Lives from History: Renaissance to 1900, Pasadena, California: Salem Press; (2500 words) (1989);

“Dr. A. Wallace Thomson” and “Col. Thomas Brandon,” two articles that appeared in The Union Daily Times bound History Edition, 17 July 1992;

“Science and Technology” chapter in American Decades, 1920-1929, pp. 397-426 (New York: Gale Research, 1996);

“Visitors’ Views of South Carolina Roads Before 1833,” Carologue, A Publication of the South Carolina Historical Society, vol. 11, no. 1, spring, 1996;

“The Boom and Bust of American Silk Culture,” Proceedings of the South Carolina Historical Association, 1997;

“The Man with the Microscope” (Francis Porcher), Sandlapper, the Magazine of South Carolina, winter, 1997-98;

“Church Architecture in Union County, 1750-1904,” 2004 Calendar, Union County Arts Council, 2004;

“A Look at Mill League Baseball,” The Union Grapevine, vol. I, no. 2, June 2004; reprinted in Historical Newsletter of the Union County Historical Society, April, 2009;

“Seedbed of Secession, Union District, S. C., 1850 to 1860,” Carologue, A Publication of the South Carolina Historical Society, vol. 20, no. 3, fall 2004.

The South Carolina Encyclopedia, Walter Edgar, ed., (Columbia: USC Press, 2006) articles on:

“Gist, William Henry”

“Intracoastal Waterway”

“State Road”

“Union”

“Union County”

NON-PRINT:

A series of videotapes on Revolutionary War battlefields and other historical sites of Union County.

WORKS EDITED:

Voices of the Past (Greenville: “A” Press, 1980), a collection of WPA interviews of ex-slaves and ex-confederates performed by Caldwell Sims in the 1930s.

BOOK REVIEWS:

The Sanitarians: A History of American Public Health, John Duffy, reviewed in The Maryland Historian, vol. 23, no. 2, fall-winter 1992;

The History of Newberry County, South Carolina, Vol. II, 1860-1990, Thomas H. Pope, reviewed in South Carolina Historical Magazine, vol. 94, no. 2, April 1993;

Yellow Fever and Public Health in the New South, John H. Ellis, reviewed in Southern Culture, Vol. 1, no. 3, spring 1995;

Southern Folk Medicine, 1750-1820, Kay Moss, reviewed in The South Carolina Historical Magazine, vol. 101, no. 2, April 2000;

Black Lung, Alan Derickson, reviewed in Journal of Southern History, vol. LXVI, no. 2, May 2000;

Natural History Investigations in South Carolina from Colonial Times to the Present, Albert Sanders and William Anderson, reviewed in The South Carolina Historical Magazine, vol. 102, no. 2 April 2001;

Doctoring the South, Steven Stowe, reviewed in South Carolina Historical Magazine, vol. 107, no. 4, October 2006;

A Doctor's Toughest Case: a Girl, a Disease, a Medical University, Walter Bonner, M.D., reviewed in South Carolina Historical Magazine, vol. 108, no. 4, October 2007.